Wedding Info

It's important for couples to ask questions before booking a photographer for their wedding! I have accumulated these Frequently Asked Questions below to help make answering your questions easy and straightforward!

Where are you located? Do you travel? I am located in the city of Angels (Los Angeles) California, but am passport ready to travel wherever your wedding takes me! Contact me about travel fees if you are interested!

What is your photographic style? I consider my style to be a mix between modern, artistic, and photo journalistic. I love capturing the candid moments that unfold naturally throughout the day – but I also enjoy the more posed photographs that require a small bit of planning and creative thought.

What are your rates? I offer wedding collections beginning at $1,200. If you would like specific information on what I offer, please click “Contact” from the options above to send me an email. I'd be happy to help you find the perfect wedding photography collection!

How do I reserve you to photograph my wedding? Once I receive a signed copy of your wedding contract and a 30% non-refundable deposit – the date is saved! Please note that email inquiries do not guarantee any client to a particular date. It is not unusual for me to receive four to five inquiries for most dates during wedding season, and therefore the date remains open until a contract is signed!

How much time should we set aside on our wedding day for portraits?

I recommend anywhere from 30-45 minutes of time to take pictures of the two of you! This does not include the time needed for formal portraits of the family and bridal party. I tell all of my couples that by blocking out 30 minutes with your photographer will give you both a beautiful collection of photographs and a chance to spend time together, just the two of you – apart from the hustle and bustle of your wedding day.

If your wedding schedule is tight, which it generally is, consider booking a day after session to get all of the pictures together that you want. The more time I have with the two of you, the more creative I can be! If you can give me more than 45 minutes, I will love you forever and ever... plus you'll love me even more when you see how many gorgeous pictures you have together.

How long does it take to receive my photos? On average, weddings take 2-3 weeks for full completion (not including shipping for all products). During the busiest parts of the wedding season, editing can take 4+ weeks. I do my best to post a few of my personal favorites from the session by the end of the wedding night. This gives you a sneak peek to hold you over until the entire gallery is ready!

Engagement Sessions – what are they? Why should we schedule one?

Engagement sessions are my favorite. They give me a chance, as the photographer, to capture your love story in a more natural environment. Engagement sessions are the perfect way to get comfortable in front of the camera before your wedding day! You get to see me in action, ask any questions that come to mind, & create an album full of new memories. Some couples bring props or fun elements that reflect who they are. There are endless possibilities.

Where should we schedule our engagement session? What time of day is best? One of the great things about engagement sessions, is the ability to be flexible on location! I recommend choosing locations that are important or significant to you! Maybe a first date location, a beach you love to visit, your favorite summer picnic spot – selecting a location that fits your personality is a great way to capture you both in a candid and natural way! The best time of day for engagement sessions are during “golden hour” – which stretches during the first two hours after sunrise and in the last two hours before sunset. This time of day is sacred to photographers for it's soft natural light and soft color tones!
